ALLIES ATTACKED.

THE RELIEF COLUMN IN A TRAP.

CHINESE SAID TO HAVE TURNED ON IT

A Tokio Dispatch Says That the Chinese Have Not Abandoned Hope of Retaking Pekin and Another Says That They Have Actually Begun an Attack—Washington Regards Chaffee's Silence as Ominous.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Tien Tsin, Aug. 27.—Late Pekin advices indicate that the relief force is besieged in Pekin, as fighting in the south and southeast is reported. The Americans and British are engaged. The Chinese border, 30,000 strong, hold the allies in a trap, and more troops are needed.

TO BEGIN THE ATTACK.

Tokio Aug. 27.—An official dispatch says the Chinese have not abandoned the hope of retaking Pekin. A dispatch signed by Gen. Yamagata, says that the Chinese and Boxer forces assembled at Manyuen aggregate nine thousand men and fifteen guns. It is believed they will begin an attack upon the allies.

TO CONVOY TO TIEN-TSIN.

Rome, Aug. 27.—A despatch received from Taku with yesterday's date confirms the previous reports that a convoy was forming at Pekin according to latest advices from there to conduct under strong escort the allies' wounded, and the women and children to Tien-Tsin.

RUSSIAN COMMANDER GIVES TROUBLE

A dispatch from Washington yesterday stated that the most unsatisfactory development of the day, so far as the pacific programme of this government goes, was the receipt of a dispatch from Admiral Remy conveying the report which had reached him of a disagreement between the commander of the Russian forces in Pekin and the other international forces. The text of this dispatch was not made public, but it was said on good authority to contain the statement that the Russian commander had forbidden communication with the Chinese on the ground that Russia was technically as well as practically at war with China. It may be said that this information was not conveyed by Admiral Remy, as official news, but merely as a report for its own information. Assuming Admiral Remy's report to be correct, this move on the part of Russia strikes the first note of discord in the heretofore harmonious concert of the powers. The possibilities of future complications that it opens up are almost infinite, and would be serious to a degree. It may be said, however, that the news is not taken very seriously by this government, and certainly will not affect our course in any way until it has been officially confirmed.

It was explained that the situation growing out of the joint occupation of Pekin by the powers was delicate, although not necessarily to be described as serious. The interests of all the powers there represented were at least competitive, if not antagonistic, and an ill-considered move on the part of any one government might easily entail disagreeable consequences, in which all would be more or less involved. At the same time, it was explained that all of the governments represented in China were anxious to avert any open clash, if this could be done without sacrificing what they considered their rights in the premises. In this situation, the United States occupied the position it has held all through the disturbances, namely, of being the one power least under suspicion by the others of selfish and ulterior motives.

Street Preacher Moore Resumes Operations.

His fine having been paid, Street Preacher Moore was released from the county roads Saturday afternoon. Yesterday he resumed his street preaching, though he was careful not to go up near the courthouse. His short confinement on the roads has not lessened his ardor in the least; if anything, the volume of his voice has increased.

BOERS FIGHT VIGOROUSLY AS EVER.

A Fierce Struggle, in Which Fighting Occurred Along a Line of Thirty Miles—The Battle Appears to Be Still On—Boers With Long Tom and Rapid Fire Guns.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, Aug. 27.—Lord Roberts reports an all-day battle with the Boers over a line 30 miles long Saturday. The Boers made a determined stand, and Buller lost 40 men. The Boer general had three long Toms and many rapid fire guns. The battle seems to be still on.

Uneasiness at Washington.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Washington Aug. 27.—The silence of Gen. Chaffee is considered ominous by the officials here. Not a word was received last week. An explanation may be found in the fact that it is argued that allied forces are surrounded and besieged by the Chinese army, whose movements are reported in late Chinese despatches.

A competent man will be in charge of the dogs at night and due care will be taken for the comfort and safety of each exhibit.

SEVERAL ACQUITTALS.

The Civil Docket Will be Taken Up in the Superior Court Tomorrow.

The second week of Superior Court opened this morning at 10 o'clock.

Hannah Selzer and Tom Turner, both colored, were acquitted of retailing whiskey.

Alex. Jordan, colored, was brought into court and committed to jail for shooting his wife.

John Spencer, a small negro boy, was tried for larceny and acquitted.

There was only two or three more cases on the criminal docket, and these will have been disposed of by the adjournment of court this evening. The civil docket will be taken up tomorrow.

Negro Boys Leave Home.

Four young negro boys, growing tired of parental restraint, left their homes in this city last night for the untied realities of an unknown world. They are George Richmond and Perry Fruit, aged 13 years each, and Matthew and Tom Pass, aged 12 and 10 years, respectively. When last heard from they were going in the direction of Burlington.

A Card.

TO FRIENDS—Thanks to the many kind friends for securing my release from the county road. Knowing any good thing any man does, the same shall be redone of the Lord.

POPE WON'T RECOGNIZE KING.

CLASH BETWEEN CHURCH AND STATE

Note From the Vatican Has Been Sent to Catholic Governments Declaring That the New King Will Not Be Recognized Till the Rights of the Church Are Secured.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Rome, Aug. 27.—A circular note from the Vatican has been sent to all Catholic governments in regard to the change in the Italian throne. It declares that the Pope renounces the non-papal rights over the Roman provinces composing the patrimony of St. Peter. It affirms that since 1870 the condition of the papacy under the Italian rule has always been growing worse, and the religion of her ministers and the Pope himself has been at the mercy of the fanatical factionaries favored by the Italian government. The Pope invokes the assistance of Catholics and Catholic States to relieve him from the intolerable situation, and concludes that until Italy has recognized the rights of the Holy See, the Pope will not recognize the new king as King of Italy, but only as King of Sardinia.

Union Sunday School Services.

The Sunday school service at Grace Methodist Protestant church yesterday afternoon was well attended. The Sunday schools of South Greensboro participated in the exercises, which were both pleasant and profitable. Prof. R. T. Wyche's lecture, "The Story of Jesus," was specially appropriate to the occasion and was delivered in a charming and entertaining manner.

TWO FUNERALS.

The Last Sad Rites Over the Remains of Mr. Bowles and Mrs. Thomas.

Funeral services over the remains of Mr. D. A. Bowles were held in West Market Street Methodist church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Rowe. The church was well filled by a large crowd of sorrowing friends who were there to pay their respects to the memory of the good man that had gone.

After the solemn service had been concluded the remains were borne to their last resting place in Greene Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were: Messrs. G. Will Armfield, Charles Wilson, Sam Browne, G. W. Ward, E. J. Stafford and C. H. Dorsett.

The funeral of Mrs. D. E. Thomas took place at the family residence yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. J. C. Rowe, the pastor of the deceased, in the presence of a large gathering of grief-stricken relatives and sorrowing friends.

The long procession that followed the remains to Greene Hill, the place of interment, was a testimonial of the high esteem in which Mrs. Thomas was held. The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: Messrs. W. M. Barber, C. H. Ireland, F. C. Boyles, Thomas Sockwell, Lacy Andrew and C. A. Clapp.

A BIG FURNITURE FACTORY.

A New Enterprise That Can Be Secured For Greensboro With the Proper Effort.

The Telegram was today shown a letter from a gentleman who wished to know what inducements the people of Greensboro will offer to secure the location of a big furniture factory. He writes that if the proper inducements are offered he can locate a plant here capitalized at $50,000.

Messrs. L. H. Sturgis & Co. have taken the matter up and are in correspondence with the parties interested. It is probable that a representative of the concern will shortly visit Greensboro and look the field over.

A new manufacturing enterprise of this magnitude would be worth a great deal to Greensboro, and it is to be hoped that the business men of the city will interest themselves in securing its location.

Mr. Little Arrives.

Rev. A. A. Little, who is to assist in the revival meeting at Westminster church, arrived from Steel Creek today at noon, and is stopping at Mr. E. P. Wharton's. He will preach this evening at 8 o'clock. There will be preaching each day this week at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The citizens of Greensboro are cordially invited to attend all the services.

Cuban Teachers Sail for Home.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—The United States transports Crook, McPherson, Rawlins and Sedgewick, having on board the 1,300 Cuban school teachers, who spent two days in seeing the sights of this city, sailed for Havana at 9 o'clock this morning.

Bad Day on Horses.

Yesterday was a bad day on horses, and a number were injured by being driven too fast or too far. One of Ogburn Brothers' best horses was overcome by the heat and so badly injured that it was feared the animal would die. He is better today.

SHOT HIS FRIEND.

THEN BLEW OUT HIS OWN BRAINS

"I HOPE MY FRIEND WILL FORGIVE."

In a Frenzy Caused by Heat and Drink a Chicago Man Walks Into His Friend's Room and Shoots Him, Then Going to the Window Looks Down the Street and Blows Out His Own Brains—The Strangely Worded Letter Found on His Person.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Aug. 27.—H. M. Stridiron, a wealthy Chicago lumber merchant, was shot twice through the head in his room in the Vendome hotel this morning by his friend, H. J. Ford, of Boston. Ford then immediately blew out his own brains.

The double tragedy was the result of a murderous frenzy induced by heat and excessive drinking. Stridiron was taken to the hospital with two mortal wounds. There was a bullet hole in the back of the head and another in the forehead above the right eye.

Before he sank into unconsciousness Stridiron said he did not know why Ford wanted to kill him. "He came into my room," said Stridiron, "saying he was hot, and took off his things. As I walked over to touch the button to order drinks, he fired at me while my back was turned."

"I fell back against the wall and turning he walked to the window, and looking far down the street, put the gun to his head and fired. His arms went over his head. As he reeled, the gun fell out of his hand, and hitting the window sill, bounced out and I heard it fall on the street after he fell dead on the floor."

Stridiron crept to the door and had just stepped out into the hall to give the alarm when the clerk and the elevator boy arrived. In Ford's pocket was found a letter reading as follows: "The better the day, the better the deed. I hope my friends will forgive me for this act. I hope to spend a better life in the next world than this."

SHE LOOKED OUT FOR HERSELF.

An American Woman Proves Herself Handy With the Pistol, as Half a Dozen Dead Chinamen Testify.

Minneapolis, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Eugene Crane, of Shanghai, China, arrived today. While visiting at Sinu, 50 miles from Wei-Hai-Wei, Mrs. Crane was attacked by a mob of Boxers at the residence of J. T. Elliston. She had been visiting at the home of the British consular agent earlier in the evening, in company with Mrs. Elliston. As they started for home about 9 o'clock a Russian accosted them saying he was fearful of a Boxer uprising and that they had better look out for themselves.

Thoroughly alarmed, the women hastened home and had barely entered the house before a dozen Boxers were hammering at the door. They tried to break down the door, but failing in this, one of them secured entrance through a window. Mrs. Crane ran into the next room for her revolver. When she returned the Chinaman was inside the room helping another man to enter. She fired and the man dropped. The one in the window hung in full view and Mrs. Crane rushed up and placed the revolver against his breast and fired again. He fell back into the crowd. The mob started for the rear of the house, when Mrs. Crane opened fire again, dropping another. She and Mrs. Elliston afterwards dragged the Chinaman who had fallen in the house out on the street, where a half dozen other dead Chinamen were found the next morning.

Our congregation feel much indebted to Rev. Rufus W. Weaver for the excellent sermon he gave us last Sabbath morning. Many of us older ones have watched his energy and push to fit himself for the high position to which he has attained, and are greatly gratified, showing what a young man can make of himself by the grace of God, if he will.

HOLINESS MOVEMENT DEAD.

Lynch and His Crowd in Florida—Tax Assessment Cases Will Last Ten Days. White Supremacy Clubs Transformed Into Bryan Ones.

Special Correspondence of The Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 27.—Today Democratic State Chairman Simmons, National Committeeman Josephus Daniel, and Julian S. Carr signed a call for a State convention for Democrats clubs here in September. They also call on the "White Supremacy" clubs which were formed, to the number of some 1,300 during the recent State campaign, to convert themselves into Bryan and Stevenson clubs for the National campaign.

At Asheville today the hearing of the railway tax assessment cases began, or rather was resumed, before Standing Master James E. Shepherd. The lawyers of the State think the hearing at Asheville will last ten days and say it is only the beginning of a long case. One of the attorneys for the defendant railways, which are fighting the assessment, Robert Burton, of Raleigh, was yesterday placed in a hospital here. He has fever.

It is considered very safe to say that the drought and heat have reduced the cotton crop in this State a third, and even at least that much, probably more. Many people here express the belief that cotton will go to ten cents, and some put the estimate as high as 12 cents.

Quite a number of people passed here yesterday for the mountain resorts and the latter must be doing a land office business.

A few years ago there was a great deal of talk about the presence in North Carolina waters of Lynch and his "Holiness Band" from Chicoteague, Va. For a year or two nothing has been heard of these fanatical polygamists, but it is learned that Lynch and a few of his followers are now in lower Florida. The movement has played out. Little or nothing is heard of the other "Holiness" cranks who for a few years so agitated a lot of the more ignorant people of the State. These "Holiness" people had at one time a sort of "school" up west.

The movement for compulsory education in North Carolina is growing. Two of the State officials who are more closely in touch with the people advocate it, and now Congressman Bellamy of the Sixth district declares for it. The law ought to be enacted and strictly enforced. Illiteracy is North Carolina's one great reproach.

EDITOR BAILEY ENDORSED.

Baptists Denounce The News and Observer and Its Editor.

Special to Charlotte Observer.

Wilkesboro, Aug. 25.—The Brushy Mountain Association yesterday passed unanimously the following resolution referring to the attack made by the editor of The News and Observer on J. W. Bailey, editor of The Biblical Recorder, and the same was ordered printed:

"Resolved, That we, delegates in session with the Brush Mountain Association of Baptist Churches, do hereby renew our expression of confidence in The Biblical Recorder and its editor, J. Wm. Bailey, and do condemn and reprobate the attack made on J. W. Bailey in The Raleigh News and Observer, of August 23d, by its editor, Josephus Daniels, and that we regard the same as an attack on the character and good name of the Baptists as a denomination."

Strong speeches were made by J. L. Hemphill, Rev. W. R. Bradshaw, J. J. Beach and Dr. W. R. Gwaltney, all of whom are Democrats.

The Lindley Orchard as an Improvement on the Razor Back.

Sanford Express.

This has been a busy summer with the J. Van Lindley Orchard Company of Southern Pines. The Superintendent informs The Express that since the opening of the season they have shipped six thousand crates of peaches to the Northern markets. Besides this they have marketed six hundred bushels of blackberries as well as large quantities of grapes and plums. They recently pulled a watermelon which weighed 75 pounds.

It used to be said that the Southern Pines section wouldn't sprout peas and that a razor-backed hog had a hard time making a living then. Behold the change of a few short years. This company grows feed for all their stock and a surplus to sell. This year they planted 75 bushels of cow peas, as well as a good many acres in corn. They have 50 acres in peach trees that will commence bearing next year.

SHORT NEWS NOTES.

By his will the late Moses Pierce, the Connecticut cotton manufacturer, left $100,000 to be applied to the education of teachers for Southern colored schools.

Chairman Jones, of the Democratic National Executive committee, announces that Eastern headquarters will be opened in New York Wednesday of this week. Vice Chairman W. J. Stone, of Missouri, will be in charge.

New York suffered a $300,000 fire Saturday afternoon. It originated on Wooster street.

The closing of two cotton mills in Lowell, Mass., have thrown 2,500 out of employment.

The Navy Department has taken the initial steps in the preparation for the complete and comprehensive system of fortifications and harbor improvements by which it is intended to make the island of Guam a thoroughly protected base for our naval vessels in the western Pacific.

A call for an anti-imperialist conference, has been issued by the Ohio delegates to the recent Liberty Congress, at Indianapolis. The conference will meet at Columbus, O., September 5, and will determine political action in Ohio during the campaign.

A Shanghai dispatch repeats the report that the Japanese troops pursued the Empress Dowager and the court, and overtook them 80 miles northwest of Peking. The Emperor, it is said, threw himself on the protection of his captors. The prisoners have not yet reached Peking.

It is announced that Pope Leo considers the end of his long career near at hand and is expecting death.

Over $6,000,000 in specie, consigned to banks at San Francisco, Cal., was brought to that city yesterday from Sydney, Australia, by the steamer Mariposa.

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed will, it is said, buy a tract of land on which to build a residence, adjoining the property of Governor Roosevelt, at Oyster Bay, N. Y.

W. N. HINTON, Mgr.

JULIAN S. CARR IN THE RACE.

HE ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY.

Asks the Support of the Democratic Electors of the State for United States Senator—He is a Firm Believer in the Primary and Will Cheerfully Accept Its Result—Welcomes the New Era in North Carolina Which is to Bring Freedom.

Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, the millionaire philanthropist, announces his candidacy for the United States Senate in the following card: To the Democratic Electors of North Carolina:

At your last State convention you declared through your delegates, in the platform adopted, in favor of a primary election on November 6, 1900, to decide your preference for Senator of the United States, for the term beginning March 4, 1901. I favored this action then and I heartily endorse it now. The primary will be held; our party is not afraid to trust the wisdom of the people. All the supporters of our cause in the August election are invited to participate in the primary. For many years the conviction has come home to many of the best thinkers of our country, that the election of United States Senators should be committed directly to the people—the source of all political power. In the absence of the necessary and needed constitutional change, the primary affords the nearest possible approach to an election of Senators by the vote of the people.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for United States Senator and ask your support in the primary. My record as a citizen and a Democrat is fairly well known to many of you. I ask for it no greater consideration than is justly accorded the record of those able and honorable gentlemen whose names have been mentioned for this high position. In this contest I shall not attempt in any way to detract from the merit of any competitor. We are all Democrats; we are all members of the same great political household; we have fought side by side its great battles; we have by united effort and undivided strength achieved its great triumphs.

In the recent election—the great uprising of Anglo-Saxon manhood—we achieved a notable victory, fraught with far-reaching and important consequences; imposing upon you the entire responsibility and burden of State government, and as a part of this the imperative duty of providing adequate educational facilities for the boys and girls of our State. You will meet these greater responsibilities bravely and fearlessly, and discharge their duties patiently and wisely. We are no longer, as in the past, to be kept busy with the cares of preserving our homes, but will reach out to participate more freely in the politics of the nation. We shall now strive on the higher plane of effort and state-manship.

My political principles are those of the Democratic party and find excellent and thorough expression in the national and State platforms. I need not summarize their declarations. To each of them and to both of them I yield most ready and unswerving support. They are the voice of my party speaking in its appointed channels. I obey that voice; and if your choice shall fall to me I shall in every way endeavor to have those declarations become the law of the land by appropriate statutes.

The industrial and educational progress of North Carolina will command my earnest attention and zealous service. Its large agricultural interests will receive my watchful care and I will ever strive to foster and protect the same from hostile legislation. I have endeavored, as best I could, to aid in the agricultural, industrial and educational development and advancement of our State. I have endeavored to aid the public and private schools as far as I could. I believe, with confidence, I can accomplish more in these directions in the enlarged field of high official position, and aided by my experience and knowledge attract greater attention to the resources and opportunities offered by our State. The general upbuilding of our Commonwealth will command at all times my earnest and loyal endeavor. I shall strive to protect our people from the dangers and disasters of force bills and preserve from Federal interference our new constitutional amendment, the submission and adoption of which by such an overwhelming majority adds new glory to the "Old North State."

The earnest solicitations of my old comrades in arms have influenced me no little in deciding to submit my name for your suffrage. The old Confederate veteran realizes that the young men of a new generation will soon have entire charge of the old ship of State; a few years more and the last one of them with a halo of precious memories around him, will have fought his last fight and departed from the scene of action. But while he yet lives and lingers in sweet and sad memories of the glorious past, he will feel a brighter satisfaction to be again represented in our highest council by one of the "Boys that wore the Gray."

Fellow Democrats: My services have been yours in every campaign since I became of age; services gladly given without desire for, or expectation of, reward save only the gratification of a deep and abiding love for my native State, my people, my party and its glorious principles. My only ambition is to serve better my native State, to aid more in its agricultural and industrial upbuilding and its educational advancement; to promote the welfare and happiness of its people, and should you choose me to serve you in the Senate of the United States my loyalty and devotion to my State in the past, in war and in peace, can give you assurance that you shall have the same measure of both in the future.

Yours, very truly,
J. S. Carr.

ABSENT TREATMENT.

The Woman Had Faith In It and Was Cured.

"My wife solemnly affirms that she will get a divorce if I say anything about it," said Jones with a smile. "But it is too good to keep, so here goes. Mrs. Jones had been ailing for some time, and, falling into the hands of one of the neighbors who is a faith curist, she became imbued with that peculiar belief. I laughed at her, but she remained firm and said she was convinced that she could be cured only through faith. As her illness was nothing serious I said nothing more, congratulating myself that I was ahead what a doctor would have charged her.

"It ran along for some time while my wife continued to gain, and at last she announced that she was fully cured.

"Now, then, John Henry," said she, "I never again wish to hear you say anything about mind cure being all imaginable. I am sure that I would have been a dead woman if I hadn't taken the treatment that I did. And to think he never set eyes on me!"

"He never, what? I gasped.

"Set eyes on me! I took the absent treatment. I sent Professor Fake $5 to treat me by his famous absent treatment."

"Do you mean to say," said I, "that you sent a fakir $5 to treat you?"

"That's just what I did! And to think the most wonderful thing about it was that I was aware the moment that he received my letter and opened it, although he was a thousand miles from me! Why, I commenced gaining right from that moment! It is simply wonderful! You can't deny that I am a well woman, and all through the wonderful absent treatment that I received."

"I should have said something right then and there had I not heard the postman's whistle and gone to the door to get my mail. There was a letter for my wife from the dead letter office, and when she opened it out dropped her letter to Professor Fake. She had misdirected it, and the fakir had never received it. She says—but on second thought I hadn't better tell you what she says."—Detroit Free Press.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Government Knows Little of Chinese Army—Lieutenant Long's Career—Educational News.

(Special Correspondence.)

It is understood that the bureau of military information of the war department is greatly lacking in any definite idea of what the Chinese army really consists of. Indeed its very form of organization is but poorly understood. Generalities are known and but little else. There is not that thorough understanding of the question that would allow one to judge something of the military capability of the Chinese people. The military bureau is now engaged in the preparation of a map of China for military purposes, but it is not likely that this map can be completed within a month.

Men who know China well and who have lived in that country are not inclined to give credence to the wild speculations over the military possibilities of China in a war to be carried on in the near future. They declare that, while China would be enormously powerful with an unlimited store of arms and ammunition and with such discipline as her troops might secure by vigorous action during a term of five or ten years, yet that country is now helpless because of a lack of discipline and the possession of a very limited amount of arms. They believe that the Chinese being somewhat of a mystery themselves are able to impress the sensational mind with an indescribable power, yet they have no confidence in the materialization of any such power in the near future.

There has been a good deal of exaggeration in regard to China's ability to manufacture her own arms. The fact is that so far as is known to well informed men here there were but two sets of arsenals in China for the manufacture of arms before the present warlike movement broke out. These arsenals were located near Tien-tsin and near Canton. The Tien-tsin arsenals have been destroyed, and now only those shops at Canton are in operation.

The fact is pointed out that China has manufactured arms of modern type only by the use of machinery imported into that country and that when her plants are destroyed she will be helpless to continue the making of modern arms. If she is able to copy the machinery that has been set up in these factories and to duplicate it elsewhere, she will surprise those who are best informed in regard to her resources.

Lieutenant Henry Long's Career.

The senior Lieutenant of Company D of the Fifth marine battalion, now en route to China by way of Nagasaki, is Henry Donnel Foster Long. Lieutenant Long is a Washington boy and has been in the corps about six months, having been appointed upon merit last February. The promotion was brought about by the moving up of 24 first lieutenants of the corps. Harry Long is one of the most popular young men in the service. He has lived in the city since he was a lad and has won, both among his fellow officers and his many acquaintances in civil life, the highest respect and esteem. His present position he has won through his own abilities.

He is a son of the late Major A. K. Long of the United States army, who died when his son was a child. During his younger days Harry Long was a page at the capitol, and many men prominent in the affairs of the day remember the bright faced youth of that time. He was born in a military post and is imbued with a natural desire for things martial. Mr. Long took advantage of the opportunity for service during the war with Spain. He served with credit in the navy as a volunteer during the conflict, and at the close of hostilities he set to work to secure a commission in the marine corps. In the performance of his duties as an officer he has shown marked ability, as he has a special aptitude for military service. He leaves a host of friends who look to Lieutenant Long to acquit himself with bravery and honor in the service of his flag.

District's Educational Affairs.

The board of education has held its last summer session. Several matters of unusual interest were laid before the meeting for consideration. The board will not come together again until fall.

A proposition to allow graduates of the high schools of the District who have subsequently taken a course in a university to graduate from the normal school after a course of one year was referred to the committee on normal and high schools. It is thought to be extremely probable that the recommendation will be made by the committee and that the board will take favorable action.

W. H. H. Hart, principal of the Hart Farm school, colored, of Prince George county, Md., had a communication before the board asking that two teachers for his school be appointed by the board and be paid by the District of Columbia as a contribution to the school. He also asked that a donation of old textbooks be made to the school. The board declined the first request on the ground that they had no power to appoint teachers for serv-

The Indian Difficulties.

Most of the dispatches from Minnesota relating to the troubles of the Blanket Indians at Red Lake refer to Captain Mercer, the agent for these Indians, and to his probable influence in bringing them to terms. This confidence is based upon Captain Mercer's experience as an agent for other bands of Chippeway Indians, among whom he has made a great success.

CARL SCHOFIELD.

Had the Right Idea.

It is related on good authority, and in this case good authority means good authority—this is no Kaffirgram—that a young woman went into a music store in this city the other day and asked the clerk for a copy of "Angels Always Polished."

The clerk turned over a stock of con songs in a puzzled way and said he was afraid that they were just out, but he could send for it.

"My teacher said you would be sure to have it," said the maiden. "It's by Handel."

Guessing is a part of the clerk's business, and he showed her "Angels Ever Bright and Fair."

It was what she wanted.—Worcester Gazette.

Famous Gamblers.

Mme. du Barry was the most famous woman gambler of the time of Louis XV, but with her it was only a pastime. But Mme. Pompadour went in with the sole object of winning if she could. It is recorded that her winnings were enormous, and that in a single game she eased the pockets of the king of 25,000 louis d'or ($125,000).

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clear out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other ailments. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

A BOOK BY GREENSBORO AUTHORS

The B. F. Johnson Publishing Company, of Richmond, has just issued "Grimm's Fairy Stories; Supplementary to First Reader," by M. Winifred Haliburton, Principal of Practice and Observation School, State Normal and Industrial College, and P. P. Claxton, Professor of Pedagogy, State Normal and Industrial College. In the preface the authors say:

The stories contained in this little book have been told among the Teutonic peoples from generation to generation, some of them for many thousands of years. They belong to the childhood of the race, and must ever find a right hearty welcome among children.

Everyone has witnessed the eagerness with which children listen to these stories, and the delight with which they tell them again. They will find no less pleasure in reading the stories for themselves, when this can be done during the first or second year in school, before the time for pleasure in such stories has passed away. In most editions of these stories in children's books they have been spoiled by an attempt to soften down a just punishment, in answer to a goody-goody morality. We do not believe this is best, and so have followed closely the original, as the sense of justice in the child and the race demands.

Truly these stories belong to the childhood of the race, and so, must ever be fascinating to the childhood of the individual. No child who is denied the absorbing interest of these or similar creations has the light and joy which belong to him, and nothing, we verily believe, in after life, compensates for their exclusion in youth. We are glad that the authors have put out this excellent little primer, and we should like to see it put upon the list of books required for the public schools.

Gen. Julian S. Carr formally announces his candidacy for the United States Senate. As we have said before, he is to be commended for his frank announcement of what he wishes. It is quite in keeping with his course, as he has gone in and out among the people of his State for thirty years. He is certainly thought well of by all the people of the State and we have no doubt will command strong support. That he goes directly to the people is, altogether, we believe, in his favor.

Roosevelt is one of your shirt waist men, with many frills, flounces, ruffles and ornaments of various kinds. Your uncle Adlai is just a plain old shirt-sleeved man, with galluses crossed over the back. The shirt waist is a new and untried fad, likely to go out as quickly as it came in—but your plain old shirt sleeves have been tried by millions of good Americans and found durable.

We have not, so far, commented upon the race riots of the North, particularly those of New York and Akron, Ohio. The country is learning what the Southern people have always maintained, namely, that we are the negro's best friend, and that conditions being reversed he would suffer more in the North from mob violence than he does in the South.

In the death of Rev. Roger Martin, D. D., of Mecklenburg, North Carolina Presbyterianism loses one of its strongest men and most faithful ministers.

A people that can get up a fight along a line thirty miles long and continue it all day Saturday and probably till Monday, may not be justly described as conquered. It is no wonder that Lord Roberts was unwilling for any of the English troops to be withdrawn from Africa.

OPENING OF WHITSETT.

Occurs Day After Tomorrow and Promises to Be Very Large.

Correspondence of The Telegram.
Whitsett, Aug. 27.—Recent mowing greatly enhanced the beauty of the school campus.

"The Oaks," the beautiful residence of Prof. Whitsett, is being elegantly furnished as the boarding-place for the girls this year. Prof. Blagg will have charge.

Mr. Carmon has arranged to move his family to Whitsett this week. If houses were available, several others who desire to move their families here would do so.

Several students have arrived. Others are here arranging to enter. The outlook is very encouraging. School does not open until Wednesday. The opening promises to be much larger than ever before.

Mr. George Davenport is adding to the conveniences on his beautiful place by digging a well.

Master Norman Clapp, son of Mr. J. M. Clapp, had the misfortune to cut his foot severely last Thursday. The accident occurred by an axe falling on his foot.

We are glad to see Miss Ada Clapp, who has been visiting, back at home.

Miss Nettie Elmore, of Reidsville, a former student of Whitsett, is visiting Miss Ada Clapp.

Messrs. Ray and Burton, of Reidsville, were on our streets yesterday.

Mr. J. D. Oldham has improved his store by putting on a new coat of paint.

Mrs. O. dham is visiting her parents in the western part of Guilford.

Mr. Davenport is putting in a nice line of stationery and general merchandise.

Miss Oldham from Chatham county is visiting her brother in Whitsett.

Mr. J. Vance Dick, of Whitsett, will begin teaching in Burlington next week.

Said to Have Made a Wonderful Battery. St. Louis Republic.

A young student of electricity who lives near here has succeeded in perfecting a battery that may revolutionize industry. The battery, which he has just completed, will give a steady current of twelve volts per square cell at about fifty amperes.

Unlike any other primary cell, it keeps up a constant current until extinguished and will have its own lighting plant and two-horse power motor ten hours at an expense of 10 cents. Ten cells will burn twelve thirty-two candle-power lamps ten hours. The cell differs from any other form in that the exciting fluid is dropped into the cell at the rate of one drop a minute while the battery remains in use. Its cheapness of maintenance and great power will cause its universal adoption on power lines.

The highest voltage now obtained from the best form of primary battery is nearly two volts to a gallon cell, and then only for a few minutes, as the current rapidly runs down.

One of 'em jes' same as t'other.
An' t'other th' other to me.
Like as th' breath o' two rosebuds,
Same as two strokes of a bell,
An' th' ain't any way in their voices
Or their eyes or their fingers to tell.
What's th' difference a-twix 'em?
Ain't none whatever; there 'pears,
Smiles jes' like two rays o' sunlight,
Same as two dewdrops their tears,
Lips like two pairs o' red cherries,
Swingin' down from the same stem,
Eyes like two stars, twinklin', twinklin',
What's the difference in them?

What's th' difference a-twix 'em?
Jes' ain't no difference at all,
Heads bobbin' round my old armchair,
Like yellow leaves floatin' in fall.
Two pairs o' feet pattin' round me,
Like raindrops on th' grass in a shower,
Could you tell if I showed ye two roses
Which perfume exhaled from which flower?

What's th' difference a-twix 'em?
Th' ain't any that ye can tell,
Janie could jes' well be Mamie,
An' Mamie be Janie as well.
Th' good Lord that made 'em jes' hunted
Th' kingdom of heaven right through,
Picked out the brilliantest sunbeam,
And fashioned it up into two.

Beau Brummel and His Boots.

In the "Reminiscences and Recollections of Captain Grown" (who was himself a famous dandy) occurs the following anecdote of Beau Brummel, the time being 1815.

The dandy's dress consisted of a blue coat, with brass buttons, leather breeches and top boots, and it was the fashion to wear a deep, stiff white cravat, which prevented you from seeing your boots while standing.

All the world watched Brummel to imitate him, and order their clothes of the tradesman who dressed that sublime dandy. One day a youthful beau approached Brummel and said:

"Permit me to ask you where you get your blacking?"

"Ah!" replied Brummel, gazing complacently at his boots, "my blacking positively ruins me. I will tell you in confidence. It is made with the finest champagne."

An Unexplainable Fact.

"The old superstition," said a leading physician, "that when death lays his hand on us our bodily health is made perfect has now been substantiated by the most advanced medical science. People dying of paralysis and bodily ailments which have kept them confined to their couches for years and palsied their limbs so that movement was impossible regain all their physical strength just as they cross the borderland. No; we can't explain why. All we know is such is the case."

Wanted to Remain Popular.

"I have only one request to make before I go," said the prominent Kansan on his deathbed, "and that is that my real friends will shoot the man who, after I am gone, starts a movement to erect a statue of me by popular subscription. I am supposed to be popular, and after I am gone I don't want that idea broken."—Wichita Eagle.

Nothing in a Name.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been too low and are just now getting reasonable. That Date Engaged.

Some time ago a rich but ignorant woman wrote to the weather bureau in Washington saying that she was to give a lawn party on a certain day, and asking the bureau to see that it was clear on that day. To make her communication more impressive she enclosed a list of the names of several prominent people she intended to invite.

"I entered into the humor of the thing," said the weather chief, "and sent her an answer to the effect that the afternoon she designated had already been bespoken by a poor washerwoman who wanted to obtain some rainwater with which to wash clothes, and that on this account I could not possibly make it clear on that date."

Making a Billiard Ball.

It requires skilled labor to turn out a billiard ball. One half of it is first turned, an instrument of the finest steel being used for the work. Then the half turned ball is hung up in a net and is allowed to remain there for nearly a year to dry. Next the second half is turned, and then comes the polishing. Whiting and water and a good deal of rubbing are requisite for this. It is necessary in the end that the ball shall, to the veriest fraction of a grain, be of a certain weight.

His Comparison.

When you eat, be careful to leave off hungry, is advice often given at the dinner table, but seldom received in an obedient spirit.

The caution was repeated not long since to a youngster of vigorous appetite.

"Pshaw!" he said. "You might as well tell me to wash my face and be careful to leave off dirty."

SAYS THE WAR IS OVER.

A Chinese Diplomat Says His Country Has No Further Resources—Germany Does Not Trust Some of the Powers.

From the Associated Press.

Berlin, Aug. 25—Official circles here emphasize the statement that Germany, after the taking of Peking and Field Marshal Count von Waldersee's appointment to the command of the allied forces in China, stands precisely in the same attitude as before. Germany, it is added, still insists on carrying out the programme which the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count von Bulow, published in his circular of July 3, and which was approved here and abroad. It is also officially claimed that all the other powers interested still adhere to that programme, of which there now remain two most important paragraphs, viz: adequate redress for Chinese crimes against international rights, the re-establishment of an orderly state of affairs, and the installation of a government willing and able to give guarantees against the recurrence of the recent outrages. Many papers, however, continue to express distrust of the intentions of several of the powers, especially Great Britain and France, claiming they have separate plans regarding the Yang Tse Valley and the southern provinces. So far as Russia is concerned, the German press is not exercised because it has been officially admitted by Germany that Germany does not oppose any Russian plans affecting the northern provinces, as not touching Germany's political or commercial interests. The belief is generally held by both the government and the press that Count von Waldersee will find plenty to do after his arrival in China, even if his command is restricted to the province of Pe Chi Li.

The leading Centrist organ, The Cologne Volks Zeitung, forms an exception to the rule, sounding a warning against von Waldersee's overstepping the bonds drawn by Count von Bulow. The Local Anzeiger publishes an interview with a Chinese diplomat here, who is quoted as saying: "Neither the Emperor nor Dowager Empress will return to the capital until the foreign troops are withdrawn. Therefore the allies had better appoint either a provisional government or a regent, proposing for the latter Prince Ching."

The Chinese diplomat also advises concluding peace and adopting the offer of Li Hung Chang, who, "assuredly, is empowered either by the Tsung Li Yamen, the Emperor or the Empress." He further remarked that the war was certainly over, "since China has neither generals, soldiers or material left." The only danger of a renewal of hostilities, he declared, was if harm befell the Emperor or Empress.

FITZSIMMONS AND JEFFRIES.

Their Managers Endeavoring to Arrange a Fight Between Them at an Early Date.

New York, Aug. 25—Fitzsimmons' comparatively easy victories within two weeks over Ruhlman and Sharkey, both strong, heavy men, has put the former Australian in a position where he has a right to expect another contest with Jeffries, but it is not certain yet that he will challenge the boiler-maker at present. Both men have theatrical engagements to fill and are desirous of making what money they can in that way. The law permitting glove contests in this State has been repealed, to take effect September 1, and it is hardly likely that Fitzsimmons would be willing to enter the ring before that date.

Notwithstanding his sensational performance in disposing himself of two men heavier than himself in two weeks, it is not believed that he would try to put out a third, and that one the champion and heaviest of all, within the month. The gate money for a Fitzsimmons-Jeffries contest in Madison Square Garden, this city, probably would break all records, and the fighters knowing this, may decide to wait until after the meeting of the next Legislature, in the hope of legalizing boxing may be passed by it. However, both men are in good condition and the managers of several boxing clubs will try to arrange a match between them for an early date.

LOG JAMS.

The Force They Exert and How They Are Broken Up.

"A log jam is one of the most formidable problems we have to encounter in our line of business," said a Mississippi lumberman. "How they begin is difficult to explain: A few dozen logs will become wedged for an instant in a narrow part of a stream and in less time than it takes me to tell it hundreds of others will come swooping down and pack themselves in an intricate, close knit span, reaching from bank to bank, and almost as solid as a rock. The force they exert is something marvelous. During one jam in my section I saw a lot of logs plunge under the edge of the blockade, and a few seconds later they pushed their way up through the very middle of the pack, tossing timbers as big around as a man's waist into the air like so many toothpicks. The noise they made as they drove through the mass was simply deafening. It sounded as if the solid earth was being torn up by its foundations. When the logs passed under the jam, they were evidently caught in such a way as to still further obstruct the imprisoned stream and were hurled upward with all the irresistible energy of millions of gallons of rushing water."

"The breaking of a jam is a very ticklish operation and seems to be largely a matter of instinct with old rivermen. The lines and angles of strain in such a blockade are so complicated that the best engineer in the world is apt to go wrong in indicating the proper point of attack. A veteran lumberman, on the contrary, will often take a long look at the mass and then point out the 'key log.' The key log is the timber on which the strain centers, and when it is blown out or pried out, the pack, in almost every instance, will break up of itself. I had an old fellow in my employ a few years ago who could locate a key log nine times out of ten. He couldn't read or write, knew nothing about engineering and was unable to explain how he arrived at his conclusions. He said it 'came kinder nach'ral.'" — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

SHAKESPEAREAN PARTS.

The Melancholy Dane Is the Longest of Them All.

The longest part in any Shakespearean play is Hamlet, who is before the audience almost constantly. Hamlet is a constant talker, and it is surprising that in the circumstances he says so many wise things. He has to his share 1,569 lines. Richard III is another long part, as the character speaks 1,161 lines, and next comes Iago, with 1,117 lines. Henry V has 1,063 lines.

One would suppose from seeing the representation or from looking over the play that Othello had more lines than Iago, but it is not the case, for the valiant Moor has only 888 lines. Coriolanus has 886, the Duke in "Measure For Measure" 880 and Timon 883. Antony in "Antony and Cleopatra" does not seem a very long part judging by the appearance of the prompt book, but in reality he has 830 lines.

Brutus in "Julius Caesar" has 727, Falstaff in "Henry V" 719. Macbeth appears a long part judging from how much he is on the stage in the representation, but in fact he has only 705 lines. Romeo has 618, which is only a few more than the King in "Hamlet," who has 551. Cassius in "Julius Caesar," although a first class part, has but 507 lines.

The female parts in Shakespeare's plays are not very long. The actress who plays Portia has 589 lines to study. Rosalind has 749. Cleopatra has 670 and Juliet 541. Desdemona has only 389. Beatrice has 309. Only 20 of Shakespeare's women have more than 300 lines each, and some of the most famous of the great bard's feminine creations have comparatively little to say. Cordelia in "King Lear" has only 115 lines, Kate in "Taming of the Shrew," although so conspicuous and voluble, has but 229, while Lady Macbeth has but 211.—Baltimore American.

Moon Views From the Grant Tomb.

Persons of romantic temperament have discovered that the best place in New York from which to watch the moon rising in the east is the porch of General Grant's tomb. Standing, as it does, away from all other buildings, at the highest part of the Riverside drive, with the beautiful Hudson river flowing softly along a hundred feet below, the noble edifice in which lies the hero is as full of poetical charm as the Alhambra itself. As the moon rises one can see the rays touching column after column of the mausoleum, throwing into deeper shadow the recesses and giving the whole building an ethereal aspect which is strikingly beautiful. Young couples who are strolling along the drive make it a point to go up to the tomb to watch the moon rise, and the idea is becoming so popular that the charm of solitude at least has certainly departed.—New York Letter in Pittsburg Dispatch.

He Took the Hint.

"It is my aim in life," he said, "to make men happier."
"Why not women?" she asked.—Chicago Post.

THOROUGHBREDS.

Wha, Bass, you young vixen!
Now, Nellie, you've got her!
So, hoop-la! You've got her!
The beautiful brute!
Hold her in for a moment;
One hitch to my girth,
And I'm with you, my lass,
For the ends of the earth.

Now, Duroc, my hero,
Be careful, dear heart!
She is fresh as the fountain
And rank for a start.
"You fear not?" Oh, no,
But you like your sweet will,
And we'll give you a breathing!
Away! To the hills!

Oh, bathe me, ye winds
Of the withering downs!
Brush the scent of the "functions,"
The taint of the towns!
What art to this nature
Or wine to this air?
What's a picture to Nell
And her bloodied bay mare?

Two Could Do It.

Basel, Switzerland, was visited a few years ago by an adventurous Frenchman whose ruling passion is the ascent of mountains shunned by most other tourists who value at least their soundness of limb. He tried strenuously to scale the Gopaltenhorn, for the sake of carrying his name upon the peak, but all his efforts were vain. The next year he returned to the attack, and eventually, by taking many precautions, arrived at the summit. On his next appearance at the table d'hôte he recounted his exploit to the company and informed them that he had planted on the spot a blue silk flag containing his name embroidered in large characters.

An Englishman, who had listened silently, rose from the table and marched out of the hotel. Two days afterward a parcel was delivered to the adventurous Gaul. He opened it and found inside his blue silk flag, which his English neighbor at the table d'hôte had won from the peak by his own pluck and daring.

STORY OF A SLAVE.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle-working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. drogist.

THE HEYWOOD.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

It is a popular belief that death from lightning is caused by internal burns or by the rupture of some vital organ, such as the heart, the lungs or stomach, but, though severe lesions may sometimes occur, post mortem examinations seldom reveal any serious affections of the viscera, or, for that matter, anything abnormal in the physiological conditions of the stricken person. The same also applies to people killed by contact with live wires.

In cases of lightning stroke and electric shock some of the chief nerve centers are intensely stimulated. One of these, the medulla oblongata, situated at the head of the spinal cord, exercises considerable control over the movement of respiration, while the nerve which it sends out and which is called from its wanderings the vagus has a similar power over the action of the heart, so that when these nerve masses are subjected to any undue excitement the functions of respiration and circulation are at once interfered with.

For this reason in all cases, whether of lightning stroke or electric shock, the sufferer is to be placed without delay in the most favorable position for breathing, so that by energetically rubbing all parts of the body, and especially by regular traction of the tongue, respiration may be restored if at all possible. Such attentions have recalled animation more than once when all hopes of recovery were given up. In one case 45 minutes elapsed before the patient gave signs of returning animation, and at the end of two hours he was able to speak. He experienced no other injury than burns on the hands and thigh.—Engineering.

Painted English Women.

A woman who has just returned from London has not yet recovered from her astonishment at the extent to which English women are using paint. "I had heard so much of the beautiful English complexions," she says in the New York Sun, "that I was not prepared for the shock, and it was not easy to understand why the women used paint, for they seemed in reality to have very little need of it. The women I saw in the streets, the shops and the art galleries seemed to be entirely without it. They all had the high color I thought a peculiarity of the race and had no apparent need of paint. They had too much color for beauty according to my ideas, unless one accepted them as the out and out dairymaid type, and there was scarcely one of them who did not look as if she would be improved by the judicious use of a powder puff. They were free from cosmetics of any kind, however, and seemed natural. It was among the smart set of women that the use of paint seemed rampant. I say rampant because most of it looked as if it had been put on for its own sake and not as an aid to beauty. At the opera there was scarcely a woman to be seen who had not applied rouge with a liberality that suggested that she had taken into consideration the size of the building and wanted her cheeks to look as red from the box opposite her as to the persons seated with her. And the strangest thing about their cosmetics was that most of them would have looked better without them."

How to Remove Fruit Stains.

Stains of fruit on table linen can be removed without injury by using the following with care: Pour boiling water on chloride of lime in the proportion of one gallon of water to one-quarter of a pound of the lime; bottle it and cork it well and when using take care not to stir it up. Lay the stain in some of this, then rinse in white vinegar and boil the table linen.

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

How to Run Correctly—Pussy as a Railway Pet—Miners' Friends of Rats.

The correct position to be assumed when running is set forth clearly by Randolph Farles, the intercollegiate mile and half mile champion runner, former president of the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America and now the director of physical education at the University of Pennsylvania.

"When running," declares this authority, "no matter what the distance, the arms, or, more properly speaking, the upper extremities, should be used chiefly from the shoulder, with precision, and should swing in harmony with the legs or lower extremities. The right arm should move with the left leg in order to maintain perfect balance and to gain greater speed. The trunk and head should be allowed to assume their natural positions, which, if a person carries himself properly, will be in the erect posture, or nearly so. The runner ought never to lean forward."

"All distances under and including one mile should be run upon the toes, while distances over one mile should be run upon the ball of the foot, or the part just back of the toes. Runners should put their feet out in front of them in a perfectly straight line, making the advancing step with one foot when the other is directly beneath the body, keeping each arm in its relative position and the legs close together, in order to concentrate energy. A good stride will cover about 7 feet, 7 feet 2 inches, 7 feet 4 inches or 7 feet 6 inches. It is a great mistake to overstride, because in so doing an unnecessary amount of energy is wasted and fatigue comes on more quickly. If one is able to stride 7 feet at first he is doing well. It is best to increase the stride by inches. In this way a good stride may be obtained without unduly taxing the muscles."

"Never kick your heels up behind you—that is, behind the axis of the body—because it will cause a loss of locomotion and also of time by making the legs trail through a greater space unnecessarily. As one progresses, alighting first upon one set of toes and then upon the other or ball of the foot, as the case may be, great care should be exercised in coming down upon the ground lightly. If attention be paid to this, the body will escape much jarring, which is important to the muscles and nerves."

Choate and the Baby.

Joseph H. Choate, American ambassador to Great Britain, recently delivered an address on the occasion of the opening of a free library at Acton. In one of the back seats was a woman with a baby which persisted in distracting the attention of the audience by making its voice heard at the most inconvenient moments. The first interruption occurred early in the speech. Mr. Choate was saying, "There is a special provision for children in your library, and I think when men come to make a choice of a residence in Acton they will not forget that fact." Here the baby screamed in such a manner as to drown the words of the speaker. There was some disturbance, but Mr. Choate said: "Don't be disturbed by the baby. Nobody knows better than my lord bishop (who presided) that out of the mouths of babes and sucklings cometh wisdom." Things went fairly well after this, the baby appearing to be flattered by the reference, until Mr. Choate was saying, "There is a book with which all of you"—Here the baby wailed loudly. "Except, possibly, the baby—are familiar," the ambassador went on; "It is 'Ecclesiastes,' and it says that of the making of books there is no end."

PREVENTED A TRAGEDY.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, O., prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved her awake every night. She tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at C. E. THE LOCAL OPTIC.

Little Things Observed or Heard—Short Paragraphs of News.

Mr. W. S. Overby is sick at his home on King street.

The Greensboro public schools will open on Friday, September 7th.

A protracted meeting is in progress
at Moriah church, south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Murchison will move to Mt. Airy the first of September.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wilkerson have set up housekeeping at 233 Cedar street.

Mrs. G. F. Wirfree died at her home near Summerfield last night after an illness of only one day.

Mrs. Alex. McMillan, who has been sick at her boarding place on South
Davie street, is improving.

Quite a number of Greensboro people attended camp meeting services at Bethlehem church, near Climax, yesterday.

Mr. Frank Brown, of the Hunter
Manufacturing and Commission Company, is quite sick. He is threatened with fever.

The Greensboro Lumber Company continue to make improvements. Their new warehouse for dressed lumber will soon be completed.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Epworth League meeting at West Market Street church this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Policeman Jeffreys today arrested
the young negro who stole Mr. A. L.
Rankin's chickens a few nights ago.
He was placed in jail.

In the tennis games Saturday afternoon Messrs. H. W. Wharton and
L. G. Wharton won three straight sets from Messrs. Long and McNairy.

Miss Annie M. Page, who formerly taught French in Greensboro Female College, will be a member of the faculty of Peace Institute, Raleigh, next year.

Ogburn Brothers have just purchased a pair of fine iron gray horses.
They are perfect matches, of the same size and color, and carry themselves with style.

A camp meeting is in progress at Bethlehem church, eleven miles south of town. Mr. R. G. Hiatt, who attended yesterday, says it is one of the most successful held there in years.

A man who has designs on the weather came in on the noon train from Raleigh. He carried a long pair of snowshoes under one arm and looked as if he had just arrived from the arctic regions.

A special car will be attached to the southbound local train leaving here at 7:37 tomorrow morning for the accommodation of the newspaper men attending the meeting of the North Carolina Press Association in Asheville.

In the list of the stockholders of the Central Carolina Fair Association, printed in Saturday's Telegram, the name of the Wakefield Hardware Company was inadvertently omitted. This firm is one of the strongest supporters of the Fair.

Odd Fellows are earnestly requested to attend their lodge meeting tomorrow night. The new officers, recently elected for the ensuing year, will be installed and the initiatory degree will be conferred on some candidates. An interesting meeting and a good time is assured.

Potatoes.

Potatoes as a food vary in value according to the way they are cooked.
Roasted they are in the best form for eating. Peasants eat potatoes together with milk and are correct in principle, as the milk furnishes the elements
lacking in the tubers.

His Dream.

Hogan—Do you believe in dreams,
Mike?
Dugan—Faith, an I do! Last night I dreamed I was awake, an in the mornin' me dream kem thrue.

No Fun.

May—You didn't go to the theater with your Cousin Tom after all! I thought your fiancé had no objection.
Mabel—He hadn't. That's why I didn't go.—Judy.

His Supposition.

A philanthropic lady of Pacific
Heights, one of the sort of superior slum raisers shown up in "Fables in Slang," met on one of her tours a little boy who was swearing roundly.
She seized him at once and gave him a good shaking, adding: "You ought to be ashamed of yourself! I never heard such language since the day I was born!" The boy into whose desolate home she had just been bringing light pulled himself loose. "Yes'm," he said,
"I s'pose dere was a good deal o' cussin' de day you was born."—San

EARLY FALL ADVERTISING.

The approaching autumn will witness an increase of human energy and a revival of all the activities that have languished in the heat of an extraordinary summer. Everybody will discover new wants in preparing for the coming months. Those advertisers who will be first in the field will have an obvious advantage not only in supplying the immediate needs of the community, but also in being able to lead people to form the habit of dealing with them before the competition for trade shall become sharpest.
